WEDNESDAY 3RD DEC
— ICC SYDNEY

We're thrilled to announce that registrations for AIOH25 have officially opened!

In 2025, we are embracing the theme of 'Evolution, Insights, Into Impacts' a concept at the heart of our profession as occupational hygienists, in the beautiful city of Sydney, New South Wales.

Since AIOH21, our themes - Challenge for Change, Simple Sustainable Solutions, Future Ready, and Scientific Storytelling - have all pointed to one word: Evolution. AIOH25 explores the ongoing evolution of occupational hygiene and the challenges shaping our industry.

Post 2020, changes have placed occupational hygienists in greater demand than ever. Driven by legislative updates, technological advances, rising workplace expectations, and a world-class commitment to progress, it's an exciting time for our profession. But key questions remain: Have we done enough? Are we truly future-ready? Are we guiding the next generation? What insights can we provide to make meaningful impacts?

AIOH25 will explore:

- The next generation of occupational hygienists - how we promote, train, and inspire
- Insights, the changes in legislation and what impact it is having
- New sampling methodologies and cutting-edge technologies
- How we continue to anticipate, recognise, evaluate, and control
- And most importantly: Are we there yet, or is there still more to do?

Calling all debaters!

Following the success of last year's members' debate, we are excited to announce preparations for this year's debate are underway!

We are now seeking Expressions of Interest from those who would like to be involved as Team Captains or Debate Participants. The debate aims to showcase diverse perspectives on key issues that shape our profession and provide an engaging, thought-provoking session at the upcoming conference.

This year's format will again feature two teams, each consisting of three members, including a Team Captain, debating on a topical occupational hygiene theme. The session will be facilitated by a neutral moderator, and audience voting will determine the winning team.

We are currently considering a range of debate topics that reflect both emerging and ongoing challenges in occupational hygiene, including:

- The potential of AI and automation to enhance or hinder hygiene practice
- The need to shift focus from exposure control to health outcomes
- Whether universal exposure standards are appropriate across industries
- The practical limitations faced by SMEs in adopting best-practice controls
- And whether it's time to rethink the traditional hierarchy of control

These are just some of the possible topics under consideration — the final debate theme will be selected based on relevance, balance of perspectives, and participant interest.

If you're interested in taking part — whether to lead, debate, or contribute, please let us know by submitting your EOI.

We look forward to another dynamic and engaging session at AIOH25!
